

Summary

During April, the share price of The Emerging World Fund (EWF) fell 2.58%, net of fees, compared to a 0.95% fall in its benchmark index, the sterling-adjusted S&P Emerging Frontier Super Composite Net Total Return Broad Market Index (S&P Super BMI). Additionally, and for comparative purposes only, the sterling-adjusted MSCI Emerging Markets Net Total Return Index (MSCI EM Index) fell 0.96% over the month. Since its inception in September 1998, the Fund has outperformed its benchmark index on an annualised basis by 0.22 of a percentage point and outperformed the MSCI EM Index on an annualised basis by 0.71 of a percentage point, net of fees.

EWF Performance* Compared to the S&P Super BMI and MSCI EM Index (£) Since Inception (Rebased from inception, where 15th September 1998 = 100)

* Historical net of fees performance is based on an investment management fee of 1.5% per annum; as of 7 February 2022, the investment management fee is 1.45%. Returns are quoted in GBP for the convenience of shareholders, however the base currency of the Fund is USD.

The benchmark was changed from the S&P Emerging BMI Plus on January 1, 2009 to better reflect the investment strategy of the Fund. The S&P Emerging BMI Plus was the successor index to the S&P/IFC Global Composite Index, the benchmark for the Fund prior to September 1, 2008, which has been discontinued. Benchmark changes have not been applied retroactively and therefore historical benchmark performance is a blend of the BMI and IFC indices.

The MSCI Emerging Markets Net Total Return Index (MSCI EM Index) is shown for comparative purposes.

Portfolio Data

Fund Size	£112.20m
Number of Shares in Issue	1,479,281,489
Number of Portfolio Holdings	47
Size Weighted Portfolio Discount of closed-end funds	18.16%*
Size Weighted Minimum Portfolio Life	2.44 years

Excluding 53.65% of the portfolio with unlimited life.

* Size Weighted Portfolio Discount represents the see-through discount of the underlying closed-end funds. It is calculated by multiplying the percentage position sizes of the underlying closed-end funds by their respective discounts. These calculations are then added together to determine the size weighted portfolio discount for the portfolio. The size weighted portfolio discount is a measure of value within the portfolio, with a higher value representing wider discounts, and accordingly more value within the portfolio.

Some of the closed-end funds have either fixed maturities or continuation votes that allow shareholders to vote on a restructuring of the underlying closed-end fund. The size weighted portfolio life is calculated by taking the percentage position sizes of the relevant holdings on the portfolio and multiplying them by their respective time periods remaining to the corporate event. These calculations are then added together to determine the minimum size weighted portfolio life for the portfolio. A lower size weighted portfolio life is beneficial for the portfolio as it may equate to potentially more corporate activity in the near term.

Investment Commentary

Economic Overview* (Macroeconomics)

Emerging markets (EM) equities, as measured by the MSCI EM Net TR Index, fell by 5.6% in April as fears over stagflation, lockdowns in China and hawkish surprises from developed markets (DM) central banks continued to weigh on stocks. The 4.7% rise in the Dollar Index on the back of growing prospects of aggressive tightening from the Fed also dragged EM equities down. Indeed, despite holding up relatively well so far this year due to higher commodity prices, EM currencies, as measured by the MSCI EM Currency Index, fell by 2.8% in April to their weakest level since Q4 2020. Nonetheless, EM equities outperformed the MSCI World Index by 2.8 percentage points in April. The weakness in DM equities reflected the 9.1% drop in the MSCI USA Index, as rising bond yields and disappointing earnings results in some companies fueled a sell-off in tech stocks.

In April, the utilities sector was the best performing sector in EM, followed by energy and real estate. In contrast, the information technology and materials sectors lost the most value.

Equities in Brazil fell sharply over the period, with the MSCI Brazil Index down by 13.7%, making it the third-worst performing country after Poland and Peru. Despite commodity prices rising on the month, with the Bloomberg Commodity Index up by 4.1%, domestic developments, including the narrowing gap between the two leading Brazilian presidential candidates and the 4.6% depreciation in the Brazilian real against the US dollar, held back Brazil's stock market. Elsewhere, the decline in the MSCI indices for Chile, Colombia and Mexico contributed to the underperformance of the Latin American region versus EM; Latin America was the worst-performing region, reversing the trend of the previous five months.

Turkey was the best-performing market, as the MSCI Turkey Index gained 6.2% in April, highlighting the disconnect between the country's stock market and its beleaguered economy. The strength in Turkish equities can be partly attributed to local investors turning to stocks as they seek protection from double-digit inflation, mainly in financials, which make up 22% of the Turkey Index. Moreover, the Turkish lira was relatively stable in April, depreciating by just 1.2% against the US dollar. Following behind Turkey, the MSCI Saudi Arabia Index rose by 5.9%, as the country's peg to the US dollar and the 1.3% rise in Brent oil prices supported stocks. ♦

Portfolio Commentary* (Investment Management)

In April, emerging markets generalist exposure was increased as we purchased shares of Templeton Emerging Markets Investment Trust and Templeton Emerging Markets Fund at discounts as wide as 14% and 13.5%, respectively.

In Asia, regional exposure was increased as shares of Aberdeen Asian Income Fund and Pacific Assets Trust were purchased at discounts as wide as 11.5% and 13%, respectively.

In South Africa, exposure was decreased as shares of Remgro were sold at an average discount of 30.5%. ♦

Fund Objective & Background

The objective of The Emerging World Fund (EWF) is to invest for capital growth in a portfolio of closed-end funds whose investment policy is directed mainly towards emerging markets. This approach allows great flexibility in asset allocation, a wider diversification of investments, participation in the performances of high quality fund managers and potentially enhanced performance when the discounts to net asset value at which closed-end funds tend to trade narrows. EWF is a sub-fund of The World Markets Umbrella Fund plc. ◆

Risk Profile

- There is no capital guarantee or protection on the value of the Fund. Investors can lose all capital invested in the Fund.
- Some emerging markets in which the Fund invests may have less developed political, economic and legal systems. Such markets may carry a higher than average risk to investment and may lead to large fluctuations in the value of the Fund.
- The Investment Manager does not engage in currency hedging. Changes in currency exchange rates may therefore adversely affect the value of your investment.
- During difficult market conditions, some of the Fund's assets may become difficult to accurately value or to sell at a desired price.
- The Fund may invest in warrants. Warrants carry a degree of risk significantly higher than the underlying company shares due to their leveraged nature and therefore have higher volatility.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and any income is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up and may be affected by exchange rate fluctuations. This means that an investor may not get back the amount invested. Index returns assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains and unlike fund returns do not reflect fees or expenses.

The indices are unmanaged and cannot be invested directly.
