

Summary

During October, the share price of The Emerging World Fund (EWF) fell 7.35%, net of fees, compared to a 5.32% fall in its benchmark index, the sterling-adjusted S&P Emerging Frontier Super Composite Net Total Return Broad Market Index (S&P Super BMI). Additionally, and for comparative purposes only, the sterling-adjusted MSCI Emerging Markets Net Total Return Index (MSCI EM Index) fell 6.05% over the month. Since its inception in September 1998, the Fund has outperformed its benchmark index on an annualised basis by 0.16 of a percentage point and outperformed the MSCI EM Index on an annualised basis by 0.71 of a percentage point, net of fees.

EWF Performance* Compared to the S&P Super BMI and MSCI EM Index (£) Since Inception (Rebased from inception, where 15th September 1998 = 100)

* Historical net of fees performance is based on an investment management fee of 1.5% per annum; as of 7 February 2022, the investment management fee is 1.45%. Returns are quoted in GBP for the convenience of shareholders, however the base currency of the Fund is USD.

The benchmark was changed from the S&P Emerging BMI Plus on January 1, 2009 to better reflect the investment strategy of the Fund. The S&P Emerging BMI Plus was the successor index to the S&P/IFC Global Composite Index, the benchmark for the Fund prior to September 1, 2008, which has been discontinued. Benchmark changes have not been applied retroactively and therefore historical benchmark performance is a blend of the BMI and IFC indices. The MSCI Emerging Markets Net Total Return Index (MSCI EM Index) is shown for comparative purposes. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

| Fund Size | £99.25m |
| Number of Shares in Issue | 1,484,029,777 |
| Number of Portfolio Holdings | 47 |
| Size Weighted Portfolio Discount of closed-end funds | 20.08%* |
| Size Weighted Average Life of Portfolio | 2.1 years |

Excluding 50.87% of the portfolio with unlimited life.

* Size Weighted Portfolio Discount represents the see-through discount of the underlying closed-end funds. It is calculated by multiplying the percentage position sizes of the underlying closed-end funds by their respective discounts. These calculations are then added together to determine the size weighted portfolio discount for the portfolio. The size weighted portfolio discount is a measure of value within the portfolio, with a higher value representing wider discounts, and accordingly more value within the portfolio.

Some of the closed-end funds have either fixed maturities or continuation votes that allow shareholders to vote on a restructuring of the underlying closed-end fund. The size weighted portfolio life is calculated by taking the percentage position sizes of the relevant holdings on the portfolio and multiplying them by their respective time periods remaining to the corporate event. These calculations are then added together to determine the minimum size weighted portfolio life for the portfolio. A lower size weighted portfolio life is beneficial for the portfolio as it may equate to potentially more corporate activity in the near term.

Investment Commentary

Economic Overview* (Macroeconomics)

Global equity markets found support at the start of the month as a weaker-than-expected US jobs opening report suggested a moderation in the labour demand, prompting speculation that the Fed could start moderating its hiking cycle. Indeed, global equity markets, as measured by the MSCI ACWI Net TR Index, rose by 6% in October in US dollar terms, partially reversing its 9.6% decline in the previous month. But the fortunes of emerging market (EM) and developed market (DM) equities diverged in the second half of the month as sentiment on China soured. EM equities, as measured by the MSCI EM Net TR Index, fell by 3.1% in US dollar terms, underperforming DM equities, as measured by the MSCI World Net TR Index, by 10.3 percentage points. The Bloomberg Commodity Spot Index gained 1.6% in October as the decline in industrial metals was offset by higher energy prices as OPEC+ decided to cut crude oil output by 2m barrels per day.

China's stock market was roiled by the conclusion of the 20th National Congress, where President Xi Jinping consolidated his power and provided no change in direction on the country's zero-COVID policy. Moreover, the Biden administration announced new US export controls that will prevent Chinese firms from accessing advanced computer chips, marking a further decoupling in US-China relations. The MSCI China Index declined by 16.8% in US dollar terms in October, making it the weakest EM. Elsewhere, Taiwan's stock market followed its Chinese counterparts, falling by 5.1% in US dollar terms. As such, Emerging Asia underperformed overall EM by 2.8 percentage points.

Accounting for 45.2% of the MSCI EM Index, the large falls in China and Taiwan meant that every other country in the MSCI EM universe outperformed the wider index. Turkey recorded the largest monthly gain, rising by 23% in US dollar terms. The rally in Turkey's stock market is likely due to suggestions that the country's FX reserves are being boosted by Russian funds. The Turkish lira weakened by just 0.5% in the month, despite the central bank's 150 bps rate cut amid double-digit inflation. The wider MSCI EM Currency Index fell by 0.9% over the same period. Following behind Turkey, the MSCI indices for Poland and Hungary returned 16% and 14.9% in US dollar terms, respectively, in October on the back of falling European short-term gas prices.

Other EM bright spots were Mexico and Brazil, where their respective MSCI indices rose by 13.9% and 8.6% in US dollar terms. Strong third quarter earnings provided a lift to Mexican equities, while Brazil's stock market gained in response to the anticipated election victory of former President Lula at the end of the month. This left Latin America as the best performing region, outperforming overall EM by 12.8 percentage points in October.

Portfolio Commentary* (Investment Management)

In October, emerging markets generalist exposure was increased as we purchased shares of Templeton Emerging Markets Investment Trust, JPMorgan Emerging Markets Investment Trust and JPMorgan Global Emerging Markets Income Trust at discounts as wide as 13.5%, 12.5% and 13.5%, respectively.

In Asia, regional exposure was increased as shares of Schroder AsiaPacific Fund and Abrdn Asia-Pacific Income Fund Inc were purchased at discounts as wide as 12% and 19%, respectively. Chinese exposure was adjusted as we sold shares of Prosus into strength at an average discount of 33.5%, whilst shares of Fidelity China Special Situations were purchased at a discount of 11%. Exposure to South Korea was adjusted as shares of LG Corp were sold at a discount of 61.5% to fund a purchase of shares of Samsung C&T at a discount of 62%. Additionally, shares of Weiss Korea Opportunity Fund were sold at a premium of 1%. Vietnamese exposure was increased as shares of VinaCapital Vietnam Opportunity Fund were purchased at a discount of 20%.

Fund Objective & Background

The objective of The Emerging World Fund (EWF) is to invest for capital growth in a portfolio of closed-end funds whose investment policy is directed mainly towards emerging markets. This approach allows great flexibility in asset allocation, a wider diversification of investments, participation in the performances of high quality fund managers and potentially enhanced performance when the discounts to net asset value at which closed-end funds tend to trade narrows. EWF is a sub-fund of The World Markets Umbrella Fund plc. ◆

Risk Profile

- There is no capital guarantee or protection on the value of the Fund. Investors can lose all capital invested in the Fund.
- Some emerging markets in which the Fund invests may have less developed political, economic and legal systems. Such markets may carry a higher than average risk to investment and may lead to large fluctuations in the value of the Fund.
- The Investment Manager does not engage in currency hedging. Changes in currency exchange rates may therefore adversely affect the value of your investment.
- During difficult market conditions, some of the Fund's assets may become difficult to accurately value or to sell at a desired price.
- The Fund may invest in warrants. Warrants carry a degree of risk significantly higher than the underlying company shares due to their leveraged nature and therefore have higher volatility.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and any income is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up and may be affected by exchange rate fluctuations. This means that an investor may not get back the amount invested. Index returns assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains and unlike fund returns do not reflect fees or expenses.

The indices are unmanaged and cannot be invested directly.
