

Summary

During February, the share price of The Emerging World Fund (EWF) fell 4.98%, net of fees, compared to a 3.94% fall in its benchmark index, the sterling-adjusted S&P Emerging Frontier Super Composite Net Total Return Broad Market Index (S&P Super BMI). Additionally, and for comparative purposes only, the sterling-adjusted MSCI Emerging Markets Net Total Return Index (MSCI EM Index) fell 4.9% over the month. Since its inception in September 1998, the Fund has outperformed its benchmark index on an annualised basis by 0.34 of a percentage point and outperformed the MSCI EM Index on an annualised basis by 0.85 of a percentage point, net of fees.

EWF Performance* Compared to the S&P Super BMI and MSCI EM Index (£) Since Inception (Rebased from inception, where 15th September 1998 = 100)

* Historical net of fees performance is based on an investment management fee of 1.5% per annum; as of 7 February 2022, the investment management fee is 1.45%. Returns are quoted in GBP for the convenience of shareholders, however the base currency of the Fund is USD.

The benchmark was changed from the S&P Emerging BMI Plus on January 1, 2009 to better reflect the investment strategy of the Fund. The S&P Emerging BMI Plus was the successor index to the S&P/IFC Global Composite Index, the benchmark for the Fund prior to September 1, 2008, which has been discontinued. Benchmark changes have not been applied retroactively and therefore historical benchmark performance is a blend of the BMI and IFC indices. The MSCI Emerging Markets Net Total Return Index (MSCI EM Index) is shown for comparative purposes. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

Portfolio Data

Fund Size	£113.39m
Number of Shares in Issue	1,511,803.713
Number of Portfolio Holdings	46
Size Weighted Portfolio Discount of closed-end funds	17.92%*
Size Weighted Average Life of Portfolio	1.95 years

Excluding 49.58% of the portfolio with unlimited life.

* Size Weighted Portfolio Discount represents the see-through discount of the underlying closed-end funds. It is calculated by multiplying the percentage position sizes of the underlying closed-end funds by their respective discounts. These calculations are then added together to determine the size weighted portfolio discount for the portfolio. The size weighted portfolio discount is a measure of value within the portfolio, with a higher value representing wider discounts, and accordingly more value within the portfolio.

Some of the closed-end funds have either fixed maturities or continuation votes that allow shareholders to vote on a restructuring of the underlying closed-end fund. The size weighted portfolio life is calculated by taking the percentage position sizes of the relevant holdings on the portfolio and multiplying them by their respective time periods remaining to the corporate event. These calculations are then added together to determine the minimum size weighted portfolio life for the portfolio. A lower size weighted portfolio life is beneficial for the portfolio as it may equate to potentially more corporate activity in the near term.

Investment Commentary

Economic Overview* (Macroeconomics)

Emerging market (EM) equities struggled in February as US interest rates were repriced higher. The release of a stronger-than-anticipated non-farm payrolls figure and CPI print for January led the market to reprice the terminal rate from 4.9% to 5.4% by the end of February. As a result, the US 2-year and 10-year Treasury yields rose by 62 bps and 61 bps, respectively. Coupled with an erosion in market sentiment, the US Dollar (DXY Index) gained 2.7% in February. As such, EM equities (measured by the MSCI EM Net TR Index) fell by 6.5% in US dollar terms, underperforming developed market (DM) equities (measured by the MSCI World Net TR Index) by 4.1 percentage points.

The rally in Chinese equities that started in response to the lifting of COVID-19 restrictions lost steam in February due to the broader EM sell-off and the re-escalation of US-China tensions. The MSCI China Index fell by 10.4% in US dollar terms, largely reversing January's gains. The weakness in the stock market stood in contrast to the domestic recovery underway, as mobility measures revealed that activity was mostly back to normal. China was the second-worst performing EM index after the MSCI Colombia Index, which lost 16.3% in US dollar terms. The softness in Colombia can be attributed to the unveiling of a controversial health reform to Congress, which will add to the government's bill. Elsewhere in Latin America, the MSCI indices for Brazil and Mexico fell by 9.2% and 0.2% in US dollar terms, respectively.

At the other end of the spectrum, all five markets that recorded gains in February were from the EMEA region. The Czech Republic led the way, with its index rising by 10.4% in US dollar terms on the back of optimism about a government buyout of utility firm CEZ, which accounts for 63% of the index. Following closely behind were Greece, Turkey and Egypt, with their MSCI indices up by 9%, 5.8% and 5.4% in US dollar terms, respectively. In turn, the EMEA region outperformed wider EM by 2.2 percentage points.

Commodity prices softened in response to the prospect of tighter for longer Fed policy, offsetting the positive sentiment surrounding China's reopening. The Bloomberg Commodity Spot Index declined by 4.6%, while the price of Brent crude oil fell by 0.7%. The combination of sluggish oil prices and a reduction in mortgage subsidies meant that the MSCI Saudi Arabia Index dropped by 7.4% in US dollar terms, making it the second weakest EMEA market after the MSCI South Africa Index, which fell by 8.1% in US dollar terms.

Portfolio Commentary* (Investment Management)

In February, emerging markets generalist exposure was adjusted as we purchased shares of Voya Emerging Markets High Income Dividend Equity Fund and Utilico Emerging Markets Trust at discounts as wide as 13.5% and 14.5%, respectively, whilst shares of Templeton Emerging Markets Investment Trust were sold at a discount of 11.5%.

In Asia, regional exposure was decreased as shares of Abrdn Asia-Pacific Income Fund Inc were sold at discounts as narrow as 12%. Chinese exposure was also reduced as we sold shares of Fidelity China Special Situations at a discount of 3%. Vietnamese exposure was decreased as shares of Vietnam Enterprise Investments Limited were sold at a discount of 11%.

In Latin America, Mexican exposure was decreased as shares of Mexico Fund Inc were sold at a discount of 18%.

Fund Objective & Background

The objective of The Emerging World Fund (EWF) is to invest for capital growth in a portfolio of closed-end funds whose investment policy is directed mainly towards emerging markets. This approach allows great flexibility in asset allocation, a wider diversification of investments, participation in the performances of high quality fund managers and potentially enhanced performance when the discounts to net asset value at which closed-end funds tend to trade narrows. EWF is a sub-fund of The World Markets Umbrella Fund plc. ◆

Risk Profile

- There is no capital guarantee or protection on the value of the Fund. Investors can lose all capital invested in the Fund.
- Some emerging markets in which the Fund invests may have less developed political, economic and legal systems. Such markets may carry a higher than average risk to investment and may lead to large fluctuations in the value of the Fund.
- The Investment Manager does not engage in currency hedging. Changes in currency exchange rates may therefore adversely affect the value of your investment.
- During difficult market conditions, some of the Fund's assets may become difficult to accurately value or to sell at a desired price.
- The Fund may invest in warrants. Warrants carry a degree of risk significantly higher than the underlying company shares due to their leveraged nature and therefore have higher volatility.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and any income is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up and may be affected by exchange rate fluctuations. This means that an investor may not get back the amount invested. Index returns assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains and unlike fund returns do not reflect fees or expenses.

The indices are unmanaged and cannot be invested directly.
