August 2025 Month-End Report

Summary

During August, the share price of The Emerging World Fund (EWF) rose 3.79%, net of fees, whilst its benchmark index, the dollar-adjusted S&P Emerging Frontier Super Composite Net Total Return Broad Market Index (S&P Super BMI), rose 2.01%. Additionally, and for comparative purposes only, the MSCI Emerging Markets Net Total Return Index (MSCI EM Index) rose 1.28% over the period. The NAV performances and discount movements of the Fund's underlying holdings, as well as country allocation versus the benchmark index, were all favourable. Since its inception in September 1998, the Fund has outperformed its benchmark index on an annualised basis by 0.89 of a percentage point and outperformed the MSCI EM Index on an annualised basis by 1.4 percentage points, net of fees. Please note attribution in the table below is shown gross of fees, whilst performance reported in the narrative above and chart below is net of fees.

EWF Performance* Compared to the S&P Super Composite Net Total Return BMI and MSCI EM Index (US$) Since Inception (Rebased from inception, where 15th September 1998 = 100)

*Performance figures are net returns. Historical figures are based on an investment management fee of 1% per annum; as of 7 February 2022, the IM Fee is 0.95% per annum.

The benchmark was changed from the S&P Emerging BMI Plus on January 1, 2009 to better reflect the investment strategy of the Fund. The S&P Emerging BMI Plus was the successor index to the S&P/IFC Global Composite Index, the benchmark for the Fund prior to September 1, 2008, which has been discontinued. Benchmark changes have not been applied retroactively and therefore historical benchmark performance is a blend of the BMI and IFC indices. The MSCI Emerging Markets Net Total Return Index (MSCI EM Index) is shown for comparative purposes. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

Investment Commentary

Economic Overview* (Macroeconomics)

Global markets were primarily driven by developments relating to the Fed and tariffs in August. On trade policy, the US paused the implementation of any new tariffs on China for 90 days, while both India and Brazil faced additional tariffs due to purchases of Russian oil and political tensions, respectively. A US Appeals Court found that the Trump administration’s reciprocal tariffs were unlawful and gave the administration until October 14 to appeal to the US Supreme Court, the tariffs remain in force in the meantime. On the US economy, a weak non-farm payrolls report for July sparked concern over the labour market. Additionally, at Jackson Hole, Fed Chair Powell highlighted the downside risks to employment and paved the way for a rate cut at the September FOMC. As such, the likelihood of a rate cut implied by the futures market rose from 40% at the start of August to 88% at the end. The 2-year and 10-year US Treasury yields fell by 34 bps and 15 bps, respectively, during the month.

Emerging market (EM) equities (as measured by the MSCI EM Net TR Index) rose by 1.3% in US dollar terms, underperforming developed market (DM) equities (as measured by the MSCI World Net TR Index) by 1.3 percentage points. The US dollar (DXY Index) fell by 2.2%, while the MSCI EM Currency Index gained 0.3%.

The United Arab Emirates, India and Poland were the worst performers in August, with their respective MSCI indices falling by 4.3%, 3.1% and 2.6%, respectively, in US dollar terms. Indian equities struggled after President Trump raised tariffs to 50% in response to the country’s purchases of Russian oil. The Indian rupee depreciated by 0.7%, making it one of the weakest EM currencies in August.

In contrast, the best-performing EM equity markets in August were concentrated in Latin America: Colombia (+12%), Chile (+11.2%), Brazil (+10.3%) and Peru (+7.5%). The stronger Brazilian real (+3.1%) offset the higher 50% US tariff rate, which was levied in response to what the Trump administration described as a “witch hunt” against former President Jair Bolsonaro. The Latin America region outperformed the EM aggregate by 6.9 percentage points. Another strong market in August was China, with the MSCI Index gaining 4.9% in US dollar terms. The stock market benefited from “anti-involution” policies and the pause in US tariffs.

The Bloomberg Commodity TR Index rose by 1.9%, as gains in precious metals (+6.4%), agriculture (+4.1%) and industrial metals (+3.2%) were offset by a decline in energy (-5.6%). The price of Brent crude oil fell by 6.1% as projections of higher supply weighed on prices.

Fund Objective & Background

The objective of The Emerging World Fund (EWF) is to invest for capital growth in a portfolio of closed-end funds whose investment policy is directed mainly towards emerging markets. This approach allows great flexibility in asset allocation, a wider diversification of investments, participation in the performances of high quality fund managers and potentially enhanced performance when the discounts to net asset value at which closed-end funds tend to trade narrows. EWF is a sub-fund of The World Markets Umbrella Fund plc. ♦

Portfolio Data

Fund Size	$105.53m
Number of Shares in Issue	800,585.916
Number of Portfolio Holdings	44
Size Weighted Portfolio Discount of closed-end funds	13.39%*
Size Weighted Average Life of Portfolio	1.51 years

Excluding 51.08% of the portfolio with unlimited life.

*Size Weighted Portfolio Discount represents the see-through discount of the underlying closed-end funds. It is calculated by multiplying the percentage position sizes of the underlying closed-end funds by their respective discounts. These calculations are then added together to determine the size weighted portfolio discount for the portfolio. The size weighted portfolio discount is a measure of value within the portfolio, with a higher value representing wider discounts, and accordingly more value within the portfolio.

Some of the closed-end funds have either fixed maturities or continuation votes that allow shareholders to vote on a restructuring of the underlying closed-end fund. The size weighted portfolio life is calculated by taking the percentage position sizes of the relevant holdings on the portfolio and multiplying them by their respective time periods remaining to the corporate event. These calculations are then added together to determine the minimum size weighted portfolio life for the portfolio. A lower size weighted portfolio life is beneficial for the portfolio as it may equate to potentially more corporate activity in the near term.

Country Allocation (+0.51%)

(Relative performance is in US dollar terms and references the country's S&P Super BMI component or an appropriate market index versus the S&P Super BMI composite index)

Country allocation was positive, with outperformance stemming from an overweight position to Vietnam (which contributed 40 basis points to performance) as its index outperformed the composite index. An underweight position to India (+20 bps) also contributed to performance as its index underperformed.

Conversely, some underperformance resulted from an underweight position to China (-11 bps) as its index outperformed.

Portfolio Holding NAV (+1.15%)

(Performances are quoted in US dollar terms against their respective S&P Super BMI component, or for out-of-benchmark exposure, against a comparable country or regional index)

NAV performances were positive as the NAVs of Taiwan Fund Inc (+33 bps), Fidelity China Special Situations (+21 bps) and Fidelity Emerging Markets (+16 bps) outperformed their indices by 5.5, 4 and 4.3 percentage points, respectively. Taiwan Fund Inc's NAV outperformed mostly due to stock selection within the information technology and industrials sectors; specifically, the overweight positions to Jentech Precision Industrial, Delta Electronics and Bizlink Holding were positive. The NAV of Fidelity China Special Situations outperformed due to the outperformance of China small-cap stocks; additionally, stock selection within consumer discretionary and, to a lesser extent, industrials contributed positively to returns. Fidelity Emerging Markets' NAV outperformed due to an overweight position to South Africa and positive stock selection in Brazil.

Some underperformance stemmed from Templeton Emerging Markets Investment Trust (-7 bps) as its NAV underperformed its index by 0.8 percentage points.

Discount Movements (+0.20%)

(Performances are quoted in US dollar terms unless specified otherwise)

Discount movements were positive as the discounts of Taiwan Fund Inc (+16 bps) and Schroder AsiaPacific Fund (+6 bps) narrowed by 2.5 and 1.2 percentage points, respectively.

Conversely, JPMorgan Emerging Markets Investment Trust (-10 bps) contributed underperformance as its discount widened by 1.6 percentage points.

Risk Profile

- There is no capital guarantee or protection on the value of the Fund. Investors can lose all capital invested in the Fund.
- Some emerging markets in which the Fund invests may have less developed political, economic and legal systems. Such markets may carry a higher than average risk to investment and may lead to large fluctuations in the value of the Fund.
- The Investment Manager does not engage in currency hedging. Changes in currency exchange rates may therefore adversely affect the value of your investment.
- During difficult market conditions, some of the Fund's assets may become difficult to accurately value or to sell at a desired price.
- The Fund may invest in warrants. Warrants carry a degree of risk significantly higher than the underlying company shares due to their leveraged nature and therefore have higher volatility.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and any income is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up and may be affected by exchange rate fluctuations. This means that an investor may not get back the amount invested. Index returns assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains and unlike fund returns do not reflect fees or expenses. The indices are unmanaged and cannot be invested directly. All information expressed in USD. All data: Bloomberg, BNY Mellon, CLIM, S&P, MSCI.

All values and calculations in this report are as at 31 August 2025 unless otherwise stated.
